What do you know, Joe?

This is the greeting many of his friends gave Joseph Stanley Casey when they met him in his office, on the bus, or outside church.

Occasionally he would, with a smile, reply, "Can you spare five or six hours while I tell you some of the things I know?"

"No, not today, Joe. Some other time maybe," was the usual answer.

What do you know, Brother?

That's my cue to tell what I know about the vocation to the Religious Life as a Brother. But space is scarce. We'll gladly send information. Let's hear from you now, not 'some other time.'

Summer Intellectual Renewal

by Brother Richard Sitar

With the close of the current scholastic year in our schools, many Brothers will be packing suitcases in preparation for summer school sessions conducted at some of the finer institutions of higher learning in our country.

They will be attending the University of Notre Dame, Catholic University, Indiana University, and other schools of high caliber.

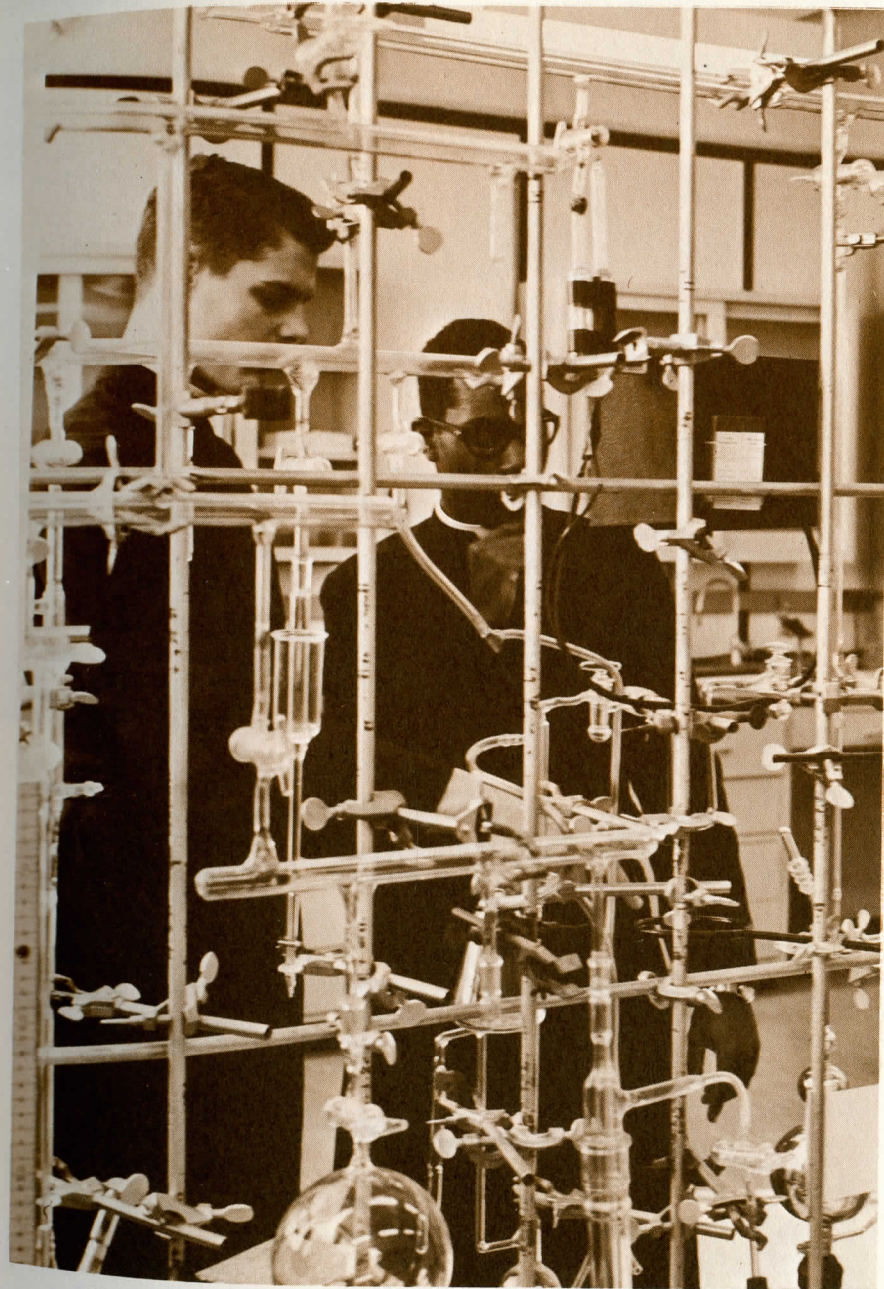

Some of the Brothers will be doing graduate work for an advanced degree; others will be filling in the great gaps caused by the rapid progress of knowledge in many contemporary educational areas.

In the past, many Brothers have taken advantage of National Science Foundation grants to study at outstanding universities from coast to coast. The results of this effort over the years can be seen in the excellent, up-dated courses in mathematics and science as taught in our schools today.

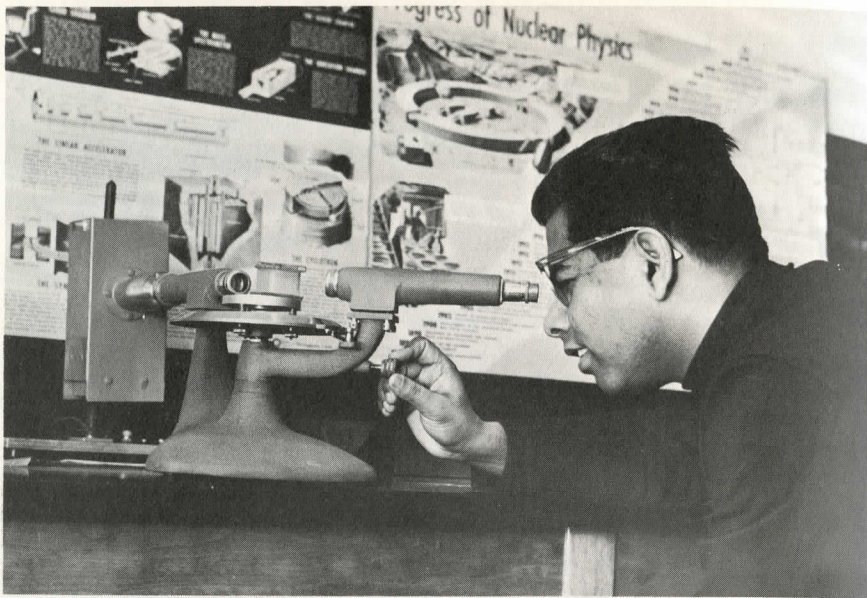

This summer the United States Office of Education acting under the provisions of the National Defense Education Act of 1958 has opened opportunities to many Brothers by offering financial grants in the fields of English, history, and other liberal arts subjects. Brothers receiving such grants for study at these institutes greatly contribute to continue the up-dating of the humanities now beginning in schools across the nation.

Brothers attending summer school this year eagerly look forward to those wonderful weeks of study and intellectual growth. Within the Church at present, there is a great movement concerned with renewal, bringing up-to-date. A session at summer school is also a renewal, intellectually speaking. A university campus can be a stimulating place to gain a deeper appreciation of old ideas, to experience new ideas, and meet new and challenging people in a refreshing atmosphere.

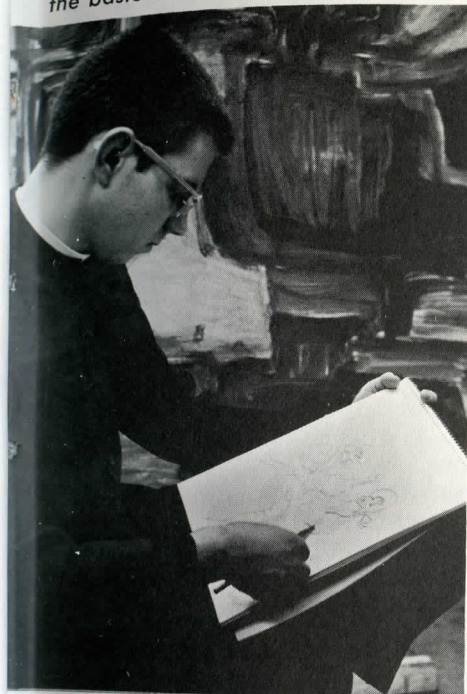

The scholastic work during the summer school may be demanding and difficult, but in the long run, for our community, for our students, and for ourselves, the intellectual accomplishment is well worth the "blood, sweat, and tears."

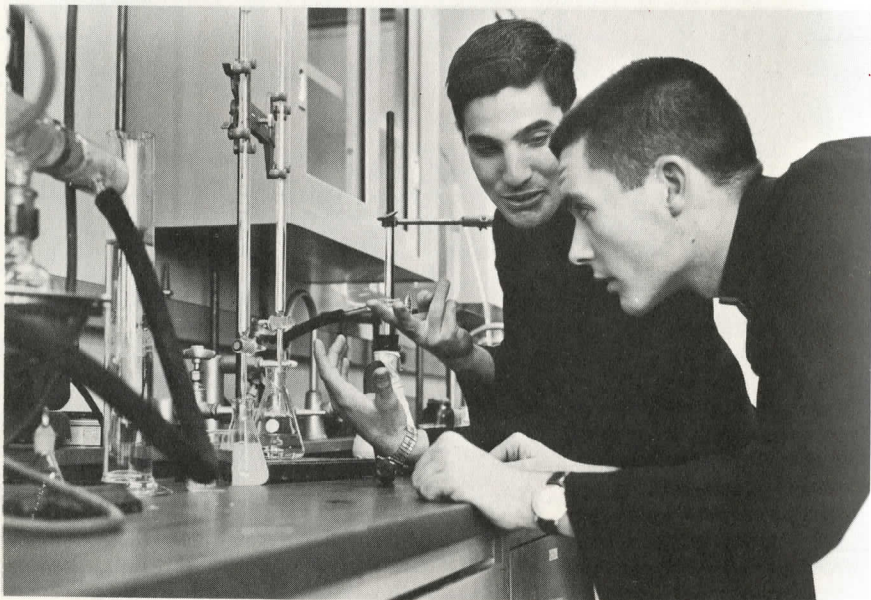

Chemistry, like its maze of glass tubing, becomes more complex as knowledge doubles, triples . . .

Physics knows few boundaries in its application and modernity.

A visit to an exhibition of modern sculpture shows how various artists have grappled with form.

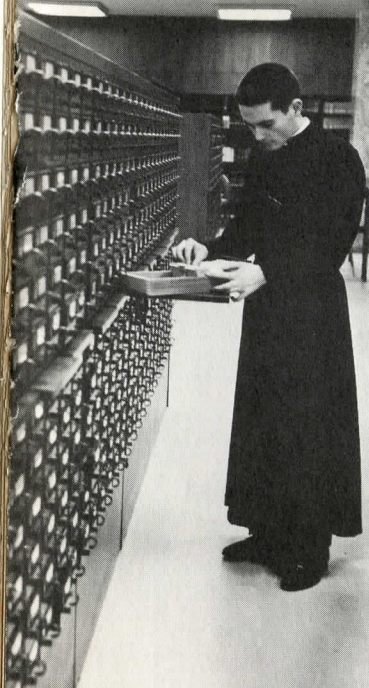

Individual and friendly experimentation produce men of research.

Whether parlez, habla, or sprachen, man still needs to communicate one to another, I to Thou.

St. Joseph's Shrine and Chapel

For many years, the Brothers of Holy Cross of the Midwest Province, Notre Dame, Indiana, have been anticipating a Province Center, which would include adequate facilities for their expanding needs.

Within a few months, a group of buildings will be springing up on a 150-acre tract overlooking the St. Joseph River across the Dixie Highway from the University of Notre Dame. This Province Center, to be fittingly named St. Joseph of Holy Cross, will include a junior college building, a scholasticate, a juniorate, a residence building for teachers and others assigned to the Center, a gymnasium, an infirmary, a maintenance building, and of course, a chapel and shrine to honor Saint Joseph.

The estimated cost is two and a half million dollars. The Province Center is being built upon faith in God, in St. Joseph, and in YOU! Whatever you can do is quite necessary for this undertaking. The Brothers have never made such an appeal in the past. You now will have the opportunity of showing your appreciation for what the Brothers have done for the youth of America for more than one hundred years.

Our hope is that many of our friends will share the financial burdens of construction. Although the Brothers are at present making a wonderful contribution to Catholic education, your help will further their work for your own and future generations of the Church.

The chapel and shrine will be the heart of the Province Center. Perhaps, your heart, too, will help to realize this fitting memorial to St. Joseph. May we include you as one attuned to our heartbeat of love and devotion to St. Joseph.

The Association of St. Joseph is committed to raise the funds for the construction of the chapel and the shrine to St. Joseph.

For more information about the Province Center, and in particular the St. Joseph's Chapel and Shrine, pull out this page to see what will be constructed because of your generosity.

What You Will Have Built

An open stretch of land. An altar. A dream. A dream to construct some walls and a roof around that altar. A new chapel and shrine to St. Joseph on that very spot where the altar is placed.

Our dream is materializing. The plans have been drawn up by the architect, and in a few months the walls will begin to rise. We need your help to raise those walls, to cap those walls with a roof. And then with the shell of the chapel, we further need your aid to clothe it with the furnishings befitting a chapel and a shrine dedicated to Saint Joseph, the patron of the Brothers of Holy Cross.

Can you envision this chapel which you will have helped to construct: Your contribution put the altar in the sanctuary, some of the pews around the altar, the organ in its place, the shrine to the Blessed Virgin to the side, or some of the bricks in the wall. But, whatever you will have contributed, it will all be a part of the chapel and shrine dedicated to St. Joseph. Whatever you give will be a lasting tribute in memory of you and your family. You as a benefactor will be continuously remembered each day in the prayers and Masses of all Religious of Holy Cross.

If you will have donated a half million to complete our dream and yours, praise be to God! If you will be one of 500 friends with a donation of a thousand dollars, we would love you for an eternity. If your dream is more in line with your finances, fifty or twenty dollars would give a generous boost to the raising of the walls. Fives and tens also will have helped to complete the dream.

Whatever be your part in our dream, please remember that dreams are part of each and all. And for St. Joseph's Chapel and Shrine, we would like to include all of you for a real dream.

Dear Brother Eymard,

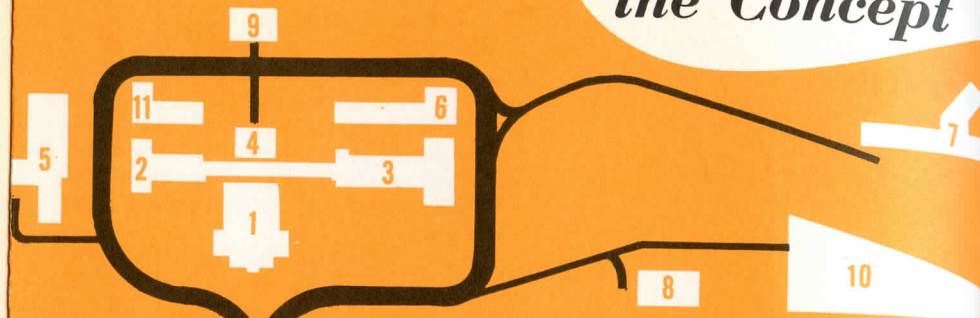

It pleases me very much to associate myself with the Brothers of Holy Cross in constructing a chapel and shrine to honor St. Joseph.

St. Joseph GUIDE for our TIMES

On December 8, 1870, in answer to the prayers and requests of cardinals, bishops, priests, and laymen, Pope Pius IX declared St. Joseph the universal patron of the Church.

In the same decree with which Pope Pius singled out St. Joseph as "the man to go to in any need," are found the following words: "Thus it is that people in all walks of life should commend and entrust themselves confidently to the patronage and keeping of blessed Joseph."

Fathers of families have in St. Joseph a most excellent example of fatherly care and vigilance.

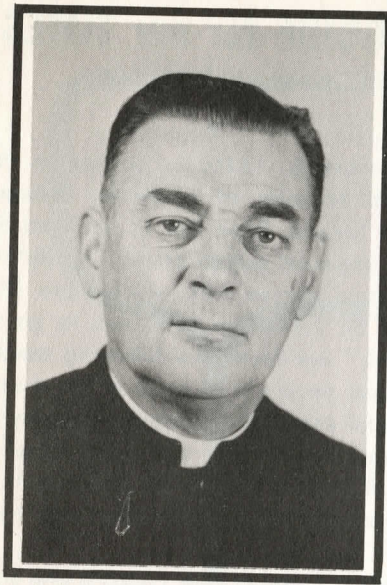

As a perfect model of love, concord and conjugal fidelity, husbands and wives can look and pray to St. Joseph for the graces of continuing love, sacrifice, and generosity.

The poor and the laborers and people of modest condition have a special right to turn to St. Joseph and seek to imitate him. For he, born of royal blood, united in matrimony to the holiest of women, spent his life laboring for those things necessary for the support of his loved ones.

Children, teen-agers, men of all ages can find in St. Joseph a heavenly father and brother to whom to bring their wishes. For St. Joseph protected, counseled, and supported the very Son of God. Will not St. Joseph also consider this special protection, counsel, and support for the brothers of Christ, everyone on this earth?

Thus, if all people were to realize what St. Joseph can do for them, then, they would come to know, honor, and adore the name of the Lord and the great gifts of God which He Himself has placed in St. Joseph. Ours is the task of asking this universal patron.

BROTHER DACIAN, C.S.C.

by Brother Edward Overstreet

Brother Dacian Renner, twenty-eight years a member of the faculty of Father Gibault School for Boys, died on March 29, shortly after twelve o'clock noon, in St. Anthony's Hospital, Terre Haute, Indiana. He had been admitted to the hospital, March 5, to undergo some minor surgery. As complications later developed, he gradually grew weaker. A week before his death, Brother received the last sacraments of the Church from Father Edward Wetzel, Gibault's chaplain. Surviving him is his brother, Mr. Norbert Renner, and a niece.

Born in Toledo, Ohio, on December 17, 1908, Brother Dacian obtained his elementary education at St. Mary's in that city, and then attended St. John's High School. In 1933, he entered the Brothers of Holy Cross in Watertown, Wisconsin. Brother made his novitiate at Notre Dame, Indiana, February 1, 1934, made his profession of temporary vows on February 2, 1935. He celebrated the silver jubilee of his religious profession on February 2, 1960.

After one year of teaching at Holy Cross School, New Orleans, Brother was transferred to Gibault School for Boys in 1937 and remained a member of this faculty until his death. During these twenty-eight years, he served the school in many capacities. His older friends will remember him as the one, who, years ago, took care of all the official records and correspondence of the school and looked after the material goods of Gibault in the role of commissioner or steward. He taught typing to a generation of Gibault boys, and countless scores will remember him as the Brother in charge of cleaning the second floor of the Senior Building and as prefect in the Junior Department.

It would indeed be difficult to depict the character of Brother Dacian. Certainly a sense of devotion to duty was an outstanding feature of his entire religious life. His deep sense of humor, which was so often a source of laughter to both the boys and Brothers, was another very important characteristic which no one who knew him well can ever forget. Brother Dacian had always been a sympathetic counsellor. Easy to get along with, Brother was liked and respected by all the boys and by everyone who knew him.

On March 31 at 8 A. M., Brother's body was brought to the school. His casket was open for an hour, during which time all of the boys filed past and said a pray for him. At nine o'clock, Father Edward Wetzel, C.S.C., celebrated the Mass for the Dead. Afterwards, the prayers for the Blessing of the Body were said. Immediately after the funeral service, Brother's body was taken to Notre Dame, Indiana. There, on Thursday, April 1, the priests and Brothers of Holy Cross gathered in Sacred Heart Church to celebrate another funeral Mass. Afterwards, Brother was buried in the Community Cemetery at Notre Dame.

BROTHER VINCENT, C.S.C.

by Brother Liguori Denier

Brother Vincent Will died after surgery at St. Alexis Hospital in Cleveland on April 21. With him at the end were his father, a brother, and members of the Community. A victim of leukemia, Brother had been ailing for more than a year. Besides his father, Andrew, he is survived by eight brothers and five sisters, among whom he was the second eldest. His mother, the former Viola Kissel, died in 1957.

The day after Brother's death, a high Mass was sung for him at St. Edward High School, Lakewood. On Saturday, April 24, a solemn high Mass preceded by the Office for the Dead was celebrated for him at Sacred Heart Church, Notre Dame. Burial was in the community cemetery there.

Brother was a graduate of Reitz Memorial High School in his native Evansville and a stellar athlete of his school. After graduation he joined the Brothers of Holy Cross, for, as he confided to his parents, he wished "to be around boys." Brother pronounced his first vows in 1949, his final ones in 1954. In 1954 also he graduated from the University of Notre Dame with the degree of Bachelor of Science.

Brother's first teaching assignment was at Holy Trinity High School, Chicago, where he remained six years serving first as assistant athletic director and then as director. He also taught at St. Joseph High School, South Bend, Indiana, at Boyssville, Michigan, and at St. Edward, Lakewood, Ohio. At the time of his death, Brother was in his fourth year at the Lakewood school. Besides holding the post of athletic director in the various schools, Brother Vincent at times coached varsity sports. He taught religion, algebra, general science, biology, and physics.

Because of the growing distress caused by his lingering illness, Brother Vincent might well have withdrawn to the peace and quiet of the community infirmary to await the inevitable. But a Spartan attitude to pain—an attitude developed on the playing field and Christianized by his religious training—kept him at his post so that he came to be an inspiration to his fellow teachers, his students, and his many friends and acquaintances. Without doubt his unaffected heroism will become a part of the spirit and tradition of St. Edward High School.

When young Vincent Will divulged to his parents the secret that he would like to be a Brother in order to work with boys, little did he dream how fully that fond desire would be realized. Over a span of eleven years he taught and influenced hundreds of boys in the classroom. Over the same span he worked with them amid the din of gymnasiums, the hectic competition of playing fields, and the cherished aroma of locker rooms. And then at the end, because a large space was required, Brother's wake was held in the school gymnasium, that place in which he had spent so many busy, weary, happy hours. In the gymnasium, too, the Mass was sung and Brother's boys were there—fifteen hundred of them. There, too, were the faculty, alumni, and friends—the many intimates whom Brother Vincent's beautiful life and happy death will always inspire.

And Some to Camp

Archery

Fishing

by Brother Clarence Podgorski

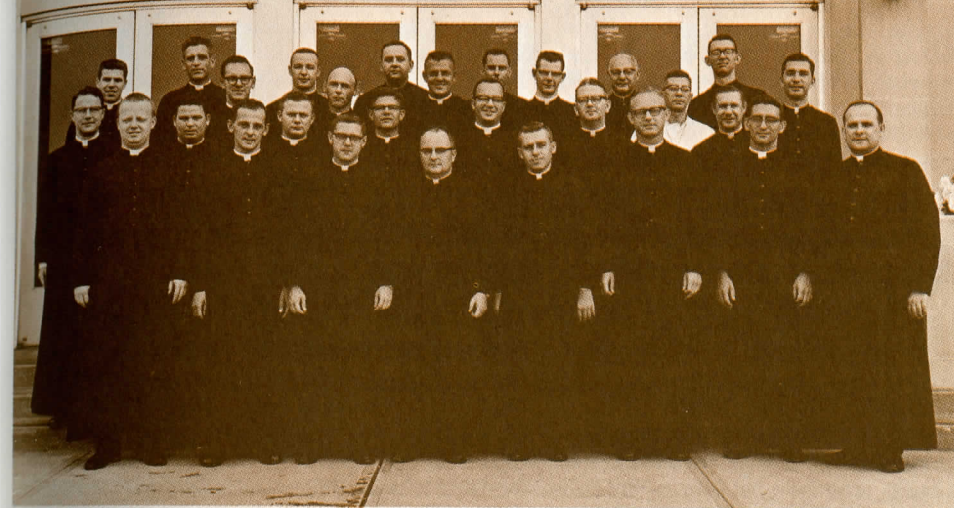

This summer, Gilmour Day Camp will begin its fifteenth season of camping under the direction of the Brothers of Holy Cross. The enrollment of the camp is 160 boys from the ages of 8 to 13 years inclusive. Composing the staff are 30 Brothers and two laymen along with some junior assistants who are students of Gilmour Academy. The facilities of Gilmour Academy in Gates Mills, Ohio, are used by the camp. The academy has 133 acres of property, thirty of which are wooded. Besides its many other facilities, the academy's indoor olympic-size swimming pool and its gymnasiums are put to frequent use during the camp season.

Embracing a variety of activities, the program includes arts/crafts, swimming, horse-back riding, nature study, baseball, softball, physical fitness, archery, tennis, as well as games and other sports activities. Since the program is scheduled for individual squads composed of fourteen campers, the day-to-day program is varied.

The camp season for 1965 opens on June 21, and closes on July 30, a six-week season. Open for five days a week, the camp begins each morning with a flag-raising ceremony at 9:45 and closes for the day at 3:15 in the afternoon. The campers are picked up each morning at their homes or at a short distance from their homes by one of the camp buses or station-wagons. The camp primarily serves the eastern suburbs and villages of the greater Cleveland area.

The health and safety of the campers besides being the responsibility of each squad counselor and each instructor are primarily the concern of Mrs. John Fitzsimmons, R.N., who is the resident nurse for both the academy and the camp.

Second Novitiate

Summer Religious Renewal

by Brother Leo Geiger

Each person who enters the religious life passes through a period of intensive training called the novitiate. Here the individual is physically removed from the external influences of the work-a-day world in order to undertake a concentrated study of the religious life, its responsibilities, and its privileges. It is also during this period of the novitiate that a person has an opportunity to test his commitment to Christ.

In the Congregation of Holy Cross, the Brothers make a second novitiate approximately ten years after they pronounce their first vows. Generally, a six-week period is presently set aside during the early summer months where a group of religious are gathered at Archbishop Hoban High School in Akron, Ohio.

Similar to the time in the first novitiate, this second withdrawal is initiated by a retreat of eight full days. As the name implies, the second novitiate is a period of review of one's commitment to God and one's religious family. A religious does not challenge his vocation but makes a concentrated study of the obligations of the religious vows he made ten years earlier. He studies the rules of his religious congregation, and the relationship that ought to exist between his religious superior and himself.

The second-time novice Brother now looks back in the light of his experiences gained during the years following his first profession of vows.

Not the least important phase of the period of the second novitiate is the refreshing contact made with Christ, the deepening of that person-to-person relationship with this God who chooses weak men to accomplish the salvation of this world of ours.
