GIFT FOR THE MISSIONS

Recently the provincial office received a check in the amount of $3,271.67 from

Br. Celestis Mueller, mission promoter at Holy Trinity High School in Chicago. In a letter of thanks from Br. Charles Krupp, he said: "I want to express a resounding thank you. Your contribution is truly outstanding. . . . Without question your enthusiasm and persevering efforts have inspired those who gave so generously." Br. Celestis was recently honored by Pope Paul VI with a special papal blessing for his work in aiding the missions.

FROM THE JUSTICE AND PEACE CENTER IN SOUTH BEND

Representatives of the Social Justice Commissions of Holy Cross priests, brothers and sisters met at Deer Park, Maryland, June 9 to 13. Representing the Midwest province were Brs. Charles Krupp, Donatus Schmitz, Eduardo Michalik, and Bruce Lescher. One main point of discussion was the relationship between the Justice and Peace Center and the Social Justice commissions. The Center was generally seen as a Holy Cross presence in the inner city of South Bend, while the work of the Commissions is education and fostering awareness on a province-wide level. This year the Center began a bail-bond program to provide funds for persons too poor to post bail. Such persons sometimes spend a longer time in jail awaiting trial than the period of time prescribed in their sentence if they were found guilty. The program was funded by the priests' Indiana Province, and it was administered by two seminarians from Moreau.

Br. Richard Fischenich received his Master of Arts degree from Indiana State University this past year. The title of his thesis in Humanities was "An American Studies Program for Senior High School."

* * *

Br. John Driscoll has been named to the Board of Directors of St. Edward's University, Austin, Texas.

* * *

Br. Warren Shea was recently featured in the Karting Digest. Since 1946 he has been teaching the boys at St. Charles Boys Home mechanics and driving techniques through a go-cart program. One of the buildings at St. Charles was recently named "Shea Hall." A quote from the article: "Brother Warren, a wonderfully humble man, was overwhelmed by this honor in his behalf. If you were to meet and be fortunate enough to learn to know Br. Warren, the many, many reasons for this action of the Board would be very apparent. Remembering something he said during one of our conversations about sums it all up. He said: 'I think the key word in this new, permissive society is caring. If more people really cared, there would be many less problems for everyone.' This fine, gentle man should know. He cares."

FROM LE MANS
ACADEMY

Approximately 700 guests gathered for Parents' Day ceremonies at the Academy. Br. Jerome Schwabe stressed the growth of the boys under the care of the Brothers and staff. Announcements included: Br. James O'Donnell has accepted the position as resident program director for the coming school year; Mr. Fred Snyder has accepted the position as new academic principal; Br. Leo Kowalski to assume the responsibility of curriculum and reading specialist.  The development board recently met to plan activities for the forthcoming 20th year anniversary of the school.  On July 4th about 60 Brothers gathered at the Academy for liturgy and a cook-out.  Seven Holy Cross Brothers and Sisters began the one-month long directed retreat the first of July. Fr. George Albert, S.J., directed the retreat. Other religious came for a week's retreat.  Several organizations and groups have used the Academy facilities this summer for picnics and family gatherings.  Members of the Neighborhood Youth Corps have provided six weeks' work at the Academy under the government-sponsored work program for lower income families in the area.

FROM BANGLADESH

The picture magazine Bichitra recently reported interviews with Brs. Robert Hughes and Hobart Pieper in articles on past and present Dacca. The two Brothers told of the changes they had seen in the city since their arrival there.  Br. Ralph Baird joined the staff at Bandura just after summer vacation and immediately following his return from the States. He is now teaching Br. John Emminger's classes.  Br. Francis Delvaux is now teaching a full schedule of classes at Nagari and continues to assist Br. Ronald Drahozal with the juniorate program there.  Br. Dominic Mree, who has been studying the past two years in Manila, has returned to Dacca. He received a master's degree in Educational Administration from De La Salle University.
