Holy Trinity Freshmen in Competition Help Prevent Teen Suicide with App & Bracelet

from WGN Television

CHICAGO – A new app to help prevent suicide has been developed by high school students after some of their classmates took their own lives.

Jonathan Vega, 15, and Jelani Jackson, 14, are freshman honor students at Holy Trinity High School in Chicago.

They created Aegis, a bracelet and an app which someday could help prevent suicide.

It's named after a mythological word for shield or protection.

The duo won the “World Series of Innovation,” an international competition with nearly 2000 teams, last semester.

This is the second year Holy Trinity participated in the competition and Jelani and Jonathan took home $1000 each.

But they're more concerned that Aegis will make a difference in someone's life.

LESSON OF THE WEEK - February 22-26, 2016

STUDYING OTHER FAITH PRACTICES - BUDDHISM

The Vatican II Dogmatic Constitution on the Church LUMEN GENTIUM says: "Whatever good or truth is found amongst them is looked upon by the Church as a preparation for the Gospel. She knows that it is given by Him who enlightens all men so that they may finally have life." As such, the second semester of the senior year theology curriculum studies world religions, encouraging students to explore the beliefs, values, and traditions of a variety of religions practiced across the globe.

This week, Mr. Merriman's seniors began studying Buddhism. Throughout their studies students incorporated meditation into their daily prayer and tried to exercise mindfulness as a disciplined approach to their Lenten journey. Students are also reading Siddhartha, a novel by Herman Hesse that relays the story of Siddhartha, a young man who leaves his home in the hopes of attaining spiritual enlightenment.

Mr. Merriman emphasized the importance of studying other faith practices because it challenges individuals to think deeply about what they believe in regard to their faith and the Truth, but also to think deeply about how we relate to others whose beliefs about the Truth may be different. This is taught by the Church when it says, "The Catholic Church rejects nothing that is true and holy in [other] religions. She regards with sincere reverence those ways of conduct and of life, those precepts and teachings which, though differing in many aspects from the ones she holds and sets forth, nonetheless often reflect a ray of that Truth which enlightens all men. Indeed, she proclaims, and ever must proclaim Christ 'the way, the truth, and the life' (John 14:6), in whom men may find the fullness of religious life, in whom God has reconciled all things to Himself."
