Kenneth is now working in a new apostolate, new for him and the Congregation, located in Tamale. One of his duties is being the Director of Nkanchina Leprosarium & Youth in the Tamale Archdiocese. His email address is kkunditani@brothersofholycross.com. I'm sure an encouragement of support for his work would be appreciated.

Note: Holy Cross novices of the District in Ghana have at times worked at the leprosarium in the Cape Coast area. They not only met with members living on the compound but aided in cleanup of the property such as taking a cutlass to the grass and bush.

Share the Abundance

Dear Associates and Friends,

When we ponder the implications of God's incarnation in Jesus, we become enthralled with the mystery that the God of the cosmos would choose to become human on our small planet. Jesus' life and message share with us the secret that is almost beyond our expectations, because of who he is. His transformation into human life is the portal for us to share in his divine life. He has given us the inheritance as being the beloved of God.

Being God's beloved is the gift that makes us free to avoid all of the many paths to destruction that are present in our world today. Our calling is to share the gifts that God has given us and to bring them to the world that is in such great need. The gift of God's grace will enhance our ability to truly make a difference in our world and to do our part in bringing about God's kingdom. This is the abundant life we need to share. As Jesus has shared his life with us, we are now capable of sharing our lives with others. The gifts of the Holy Spirit which might remain dormant since our Baptism are now able to flourish and will be the sign that God has truly transformed our world.

- Have you experienced transformation in your life because you are Christian?
- If so, how did this transformation come about?
- How have you been able to share this abundant life with others?

O God, help me find ways of making my Christian life so real that others may be drawn to you.
