The Village Lad for Jean Westland

Each one of us enacts a given role,
our body's tilt-a-whirl a joy at best.
She spoke her mind but never hurt a soul.

We valued her for taste, her brisk control.
Who can forget how beautifully she dressed?
Each one of us enacts a given role.

In every situation, part to whole,
she had a way with words—a spark, a zest—
she spoke her mind but never hurt a soul.

We're put on earth and given each a goal,
our life an exercise, a quiz, a test:
each one of us enacts a given role.

We get an ember for our birthright coal.
We don't own life—we're just a passing guest.
She spoke her mind but never hurt a soul.

Now ring the bell and let the vespers toll.
We'll sing her heart to peace, her life to rest.

Each one of us enacts a given role:
she spoke her mind but never hurt a soul.

Reflection

*Life's ups and downs provide windows of opportunity to determine your values and goals –
Think of using all obstacles as stepping stones
to build the life you want.*
