RYE, N.Y. (CNS) -- Religious brothers say they are an invisible group in the church, but that it's not such a bad thing because it allows them the freedom to be ordinary men performing an extraordinary ministry.

That's the view of brothers and other participants at a think tank convened last fall to examine their vocation.

"Our vocation is one of the church's best-kept secrets," Holy Cross Brother Paul Bednarczyk, executive director the National Religious Vocation Conference, told Catholic News Service. "We are vowed religious who commit ourselves to a particular ministry, live in community and share prayers."

Columba Hall Singers Perform for Sisters

The Sisters of the Holy Cross invited the Columba Hall Singers back for an encore performance which was held a few days after Valentine's Day on the 18th of February. The theme for the selection of songs was "Young at Heart." In the dead of winter it is good to be warmed by songs with an uplifting nature. The selections included: "Comedy Tonight," "Friendship," " I Believe," and ended with a challenging version of "If We Only Had Love."

Thanks to Columba Hall's activities director, Lesya Godfrey, the Brothers wore derby hats and red bow ties. Over fifty sisters attended and enjoyed the evening.
