May we be won over by the peace of Christ!

Holy Cross Roads Writings for the Journey

Visitations

As we let go of the Lenten season and celebrate Christ's resurrection, we are blessed with the visitations that Christ gives to his apostles and disciples. These appearances bring with them surprise and wonderment. They who were experiencing darkness and confusion began to be reassured by Christ's love, forgiveness, and purpose for their future.

When we examine our lives, we also can recall those times when worry and confusion gave way to Christ's presence and to an inner assurance and peace. It was probably an experience of God's unconditional love. It may have come at the time of our first communion. Maybe it was present when we wanted to walk the journey of becoming Christian. Maybe it was made real when we answered the call of our vocation. Maybe it was a call to take risks or when we came to our senses after a period of aimlessness.

This is a time to rejoice and relive Christ's presence in our lives. From the remembering and reliving that we do at every Mass, we can take courage and receive the new life that Christ wants to offer us in the here and now. The first apostles and disciples after Christ's visitations and the Spirit's grace were able to form communities that reached out to a needy world.

- Where will these visitations and the Spirit's grace lead us?
- Have you looked for Christ in the critical times in your life?
- Are you looking for Christ to guide you as you look to the future?

O God, give me the grace to live the new life that you offer me.
